Pryl

This is a timeless piece of soulful house that you should have. Thanks to a friend that owns Handsome zacks. I now have a gem that i've looked for and wanted in my collection. There's a personal story behind this record for me. By no means should you overlook this one. Thanks Matt (Handsome zacks/ Discogs)

Fearlesshunter

What person paid 78 dollars for this record? Please tell me what you were thinking that day.

Qumenalu

probably thinking it's a really good record words words words words

Alsardin

It is advisable to always carry a copy of this record in case one sees some wanker with a "drum machines have no soul"-sticker

Mightdragon

When I heard this for the first time, I almost shed a tear. Irresistible cheesyness!

Goltizuru

At first I thought this was an overrated and hyped record. Boy I was wrong. It keeps growing on me and people who are not into music as I, react to it pleasantly suprised all the time. Now I play this as THE example for Soulful House/Deep House. If you don't like this: forget the genre.

Fountain_tenderness

My copy of this is one of the worst pressed records I've ever come across. Runout says metropolis mastering Chicago. Any one else got this copy? Like its barely audible. I thought I had fucked one of my needles when I played it first.

I think you must be referring to Round Two - New Day, this one: <https://www.discogs.com/Round-Two-New-Day/master/811574> My copy of that one also had Metropolis Mastering Chicago engraved. Binned the copy, was unplayable. But the Round

One copies seem to be all fine?

Landaron

Flawless record. You need this in your collection - soulful, life affirming music.

Anyshoun

Great record, it just shows how versatile Moritz & Mark really are, masters of dub techno and having a decent crack at NY style house. I think this may have been re-mastered @ Dubplates & Mastering at some stage as mine definitely has D&M in the runout grooves despite mentioning the legendary Herb Power Jr on the label.

Vertokini

I thought the vocals were original but no...:Check "The Isley Brothers - Caravan Of Love".It doesn't take away the magic though... This EP still remain an eternal house classic, and has such a timeless feel, that The Isley brothers can be eternally gratefull...

[/quote] 'Caravan Of Love' was by Isley Jasper Isley, not 'The Isley Brothers'. The song that UK indie popsters The Housemartins covered in acapella and hit UK Christmas number one!

Hbr

this is soul house

Wizard

6 STARS.

Fenrikree

Uplifting, soulful and understated. A beautiful record all-round.

Rainbearer

Tell me if I'm wrong but the Chicago's Twisted Mix by Ron T. and Chez D. must have been pretty influential as far as the emerging Maurizio sound was concerned. Listen to the deep string slowly fading up and feel the ever growing resonating minimal chord. It's almost all there. The Maurizio guys got inspired and took the whole Prescription sound, but particularly this track, even further into modern times (no vocals, colder sound) and dub.

Hilarious Kangaroo

Maurizio/BC were making this 'sound' before they made Round One and Ron and Chez would be aware of that sound before they did this (great) remix ."Domina" was the first record where we heard the (soon to be) ubiquitous sound.

Risky Strong Dromedary

You're wrong. Check the timeline ;) Basically, I'm sick'n'tired hearing all about how Yankees were THE influence for _ANY_ sound going on. At that time EUROPE was the place, with guys from Round One very well informed what was flying out of the record store shelves and being put on the vinyl, eh? Just to add to the insult, any Prescription release I got sounds more like JazzFunk ensemble warming up for a gig, than this.

Nikojas

The Club Version is a steadily uplifting deep beat soul groove, with a great, clean male vocal and superbly weighted piano stabs. The Chicago Twisted mix is a monster slab of deep dark trance house to blow you away on an all night dance groove.
