Mavivasa

fiiiiinally 'worship these balls' on vinyl; a super tasty acid workout warehouse styles with some flangey oscillations on the percs... O.o

Golkree

just came here to see if there's a repress :/

Wen

Enalonasa

Honeirsil

A2 is similar to Vortex by Sean Deason (released in 1996) or Mindsearch by Instinct (1991). Actually, not a bad thing.

Tat

Repress would be a good idea

Trash Obsession

Strong but not as good as his first Apron, L.I.E.S., or Breaker 1 2 releases. Save the cyash and buy Berceuse Heroique 5.5 when it lands...

Sudert

Well I actually like this release more then those previous releases

OTANO

5.0, my bad, Breaker 1 2 was originally meant to be 5.5! 5.5 (Tuff Sherm) is sick too tho!!!

Raelin

Greg Beato is the best surprise i had the last 2 years.

Detenta

Deadly beats - like a magic weapon this vinyl will enhance your dj bag with secret powers. Eruptions on the dancefloors, working bodys - THE SHIT IS HOT! and I enjoy it a lot ;D

DABY

this ep is sick. dreamin' is my fave. it fuckin' knocks!

Drelahuginn

"The Beato Kick" nuff said

Granirad

it is another great ep that puts together the different vibes which he is able to create in his unique style. however, if I wanted that housy vibe I would pick his russian torrent ep, if I wanted that super dry deep sound I would pick his first apron and if I wanted to set the dancfloor on fire with an acid vibe I would go for his l.i.e.s record.

Goodman

Killer release!

anneli

kicked myself over missing his first Apron. but I learned from my mistake

Uste

Subjectively speaking, Beato is the MVP of the 2013 season, and he just continues his hot streak here. The whole record lives up to the standard I've come to expect from Greg, but the A2 is the clear standout for me and is probably one of the sickest tracks I've heard this year. Some seriously twisted, demonic percussion with an impeccable acid line to boot. 5/5
